

IX. Persuasive interest reflects your motivation to lead, influence, or convince others. If you enjoy debates, pitching ideas, guiding groups, or steering conversations, this trait highlights your ability to shape opinions and drive consensus.

X. Investigative interest shows a desire to go deep—researching, analyzing, and decoding complex problems. You're likely motivated by the pursuit of truth, detailed inquiry, and finding meaning through information.

XI. Practical / Hands-on interest reflects your preference for real-world applications. You may enjoy building, fixing, operating, or crafting physical systems or tools, and feel most comfortable when working with tangible results.