

- Empathy: Reading classmates' emotions and responding with support—building stronger collaborations and a more positive classroom atmosphere.
- Social Skills: Communicating clearly, resolving conflicts, and working smoothly in teams through active listening and constructive feedback.
- Leadership: Steering group projects, taking initiative to organize tasks, and encouraging others—fostering confidence and shared ownership in collaborative work.

Each of these six areas underpins our model: they are paired with easy self-checks, reflection prompts, and hands-on exercises (like role-plays and peer coaching) so students can track growth, practice new strategies, and apply emotional intelligence directly in their schoolwork and group activities.
